CLIFFORD BILL AWAITING SIGNATURE; ONLY SLIGHT REDUCTION IN S. I. N. U. BUDGET

Approval Means A Biennium Of Prosperity And Concrete Advancement—Says Pulliam

Anticipating the signature of Governor Tanner is a legislative bill which will provide for extensive building repair and the addition of several faculty members at S. I. N. U. The bill, introduced into the Senate by S. E. C. Clifford, of Champaign, and passed by that body Wednesday night, includes the biennium appropriation for the five Illinois State Teachers Colleges.

The State Normal Schools get a $1,000,000 permanent improvement fund and a 2 1/2 per cent increase in operating costs for the biennium which begins this month.

Reduction Slight—The S. I. N. U. budget grant totals $364,720, a reduction of only about $80,000 from the original estimate submitted by the college administration. In view of the fact that Gov. Hornor has repeatedly asserted his determination to reduce the state outlay, the comparatively slight reduction in the appropriations for the colleges is considered fortunate.

Campus To Be Purchased—S. I. N. U. will also be enabled by the bill to purchase the land for the proposed new campus, a plot approximately 20 acres and situated just northwest of the present campus, and bounded by Grand Avenue on the South, Normal Avenue on the east, and Mill Street on the North. Although the land purchase is secured by the bill if it passes, the funds sought to construct a much-needed modern Training School building were not granted, and will probably not be received until the next biennium, when they will again be requested. However, the land will be purchased, and there is some likelihood that some of the improvements in addition to the building originally planned will be made.

The $1,000,000 permanent improvement fund for the Teachers Colleges will be augmented, if possible by Federal funds. Auditorium Redecorated—President Roscoe Pulliam, in discussing the bill yesterday briefly outlined the scope and improvements planned should the bill meet with the Governor's approval. Chief among the contemplated improvements on present campus buildings will be the redecoration of the stage and interior of Stryker Auditorium, and the remodeling of the Parkinson Laboratory second floor to accommodate the Physics Department, moved there during the past year.

The S. I. N. U. administration is particularly grateful to Senator R. G. Crainback and Representative Joseph Davis, both of Marquette, for their aid in securing what may be considered the best possible results for this and other Teachers Colleges in the existing situation. Enactment Needed Rapidly—Mr. Pulliam commented that "if the bill is duly approved by the Governor, this college can look forward to a biennium of prosperity and concrete advancement. We shall be able to make many much-needed repairs in some of the existing buildings."

Announcement regarding specific plans concerning the additions to the instructional staff or further campus improvements must await the next meeting of the State Normal School Board, set for July 12.

Second Largest Illinois Teachers College in Point of Enrollment, S. I. N. U. was also second in size of budget grants, which are based on enrollment figures. Old Normal, with an average term registration of more than 1,600, received slightly more than $1,000,000 at this appropriation. The S. I. N. U. Appropriations and their purposes:

Salaries and wages	$745,170
Travel	3,500
Office expenses	4,100

S. I. N. U. STUDENT KILLED IN WRECK NEAR TUSCOLA

Truck Taking 30 To State Meeting Of 4-H Club

John Gaston, 22, was fatally injured Wednesday, June 23, when a truck bearing 30 passengers overturned in a ditch on State Highway 45, approximately 2 1/2 miles from Champaign and about three miles north of Tuscola, Illinois. Gaston had graduated from a two year course on June 4th, and was planning on entering the University of Illinois next September for further work in agriculture. He had stood high in both scholastic standing and popularity of the school, as well as participating in such extra curricular activities as intramural baseball and the Agriculture Club, for which term he was elected president in the spring term.

To 4-H Meeting—

The truck bearing a group of young people, left the highway and overturned after brushing another machine driven by Paul Donnelly, a farmer living in the vicinity. A majority of the passengers in the truck were young people between the ages of 12 and 18. Among them, Carter and Sals. Sixteen others were injured and taken to the hospital immediately, but none seemed to be in very serious condition with the exception of Ray Vandover, of Kimmunity, who was also injured and succumbed three hours later in the Jarman Memorial Hospital.

Gaston's home was at Kell, near Kimmunity.

Ornithology Class On Field Trip

The advanced ornithology class will spend the week end, from Friday until Monday night, at Big Springs, Missouri, to make a study of the birds of the Ozark region and particularly the two federal parks in that district.

SPECIAL PLANS FEATURE SIXTH GUIDANCE CLINIC

Attendance Of Seminar-Open Forum Is Limited

The following are some of the special plans for the July Clinic which is to be conducted by the Staff from the Institute for Juvenile Research of Chicago. These clinics are held here on the campus four times a year. This is the sixth clinic.

A Case Study is to be presented on Tuesday, July 12, at 1:45 p. m. in the Little Theatre Auditorium in the Old Science Building. All students and faculty members will be privileged to attend. An open forum will follow the presentation of the case study.

A new departure has been arranged for the Wednesday afternoon sessions. This will be in the form of three Seminars and will be in accordance with the plans here submitted. Each of the three seminars will be held at 1:45 of the same afternoon and student.

S. I. N. U. SENATE LACKS ONLY TWO MEMBERS FOR COMPLETION

Professional Studies Representative And Delegate At Large Remain

With the election next week of the representative from the Professional Studies division of the college, the S. I. N. U. Senate will be complete as far as division representatives are concerned. There will remain only the choice by the present six members of the seventh Senator, a delegate at large, who will be elected at the first meeting of the other six.

The Physical Science and Mathematics division announced its selection for Senator this week, but was among the first to choose the officer, Dr. J. W. Neekers, head of the Chemistry Department, will be the Physical Science and Mathematics representative.

The other Senators and the divisions they represent, first announced by the Egyptian last year, are: Dr. W. G. Swartz, Social Studies; Wendell Margrave, Humanities; Miss Hilda Stein, Biological and Earth Sciences; Mrs. Mary Louise Barnes, Practical Arts and Crafts.

Elect Division Heads—Also available for the first time is a near complete list of the new division heads of the college. These division presidents are elected by each

F. S. A. Survey Reveals Employment Was Given To 384 Students During Last School Year

Have Been Three Increases In Allotted Positions

By Kenneth Finn

A survey of FSA activities on the S. I. N. U. campus reveals that three hundred eighty four students have been given employment through this project during the past year.

At the beginning of the fall term, one hundred sixty nine were assured employment. Since then there have been three increases in the number of positions allocated this school. The number was increased to two hundred sixty nine during September because of drought conditions. It was found at the beginning of the winter term that there were many more opportunities for FSA work than there were positions available. President Pulliam's requisition for more jobs was granted by the State Director of the National Youth Administration, bringing the number up to two hundred eighty three. The allocation was further increased to two hundred ninety one in February, to give full or part time jobs to those students whose homes were damaged by the flood.

275 Full Time Employees—At the close of the spring term, approximately two hundred seventy five students were employed in full time, fifty hour jobs, while many more were working twenty or thirty hours per month. The program for next year has not been definitely settled as yet. A faculty committee, consisting of Dean Lentz, Dean Woody, Mr. Edward V. Miles, and Coach William McAndrew, is responsible for student N.Y.A. appointments. Working with these, Mrs. Wanda N. Gurn is directly responsible for the operation of the student employment service, specialized training, past scholastic record, and character. Gives Vocational Training—Besides giving financial assistance, FSA also provides a practical vocational training to supplement the more theoretical classroom training. As often as possible, students are placed on projects in line with their major subject or greatest interest. One or more students are assigned to each of the school's departments, their duties consist of library work, library research, laboratory or store-room supervision, and general office work. Six students take care of the general routine work in the employment office. The president's and business office staff is made up partly of FSA employees. Several zoology survey expeditions are being organized by work in the museum. Art majors planned whole stage settings, scenery, and lighting systems, the

NINE ESPECIALLY QUALIFIED INSTRUCTORS COMPRISE RECREATIONAL SCHOOL STAFF

Director Thomas Rickman, Jr. Will Give Several Lectures; Enrollment Expected to Exceed Three Hundred

Among the nine instructors who comprise the staff of the Recreational Institute to be sponsored by the S. I. N. U. Athletic Department on the campus July 12 to 16, inclusive, are several individuals whose training and experience make them as unusually well-qualified to teach recreational and allied activities.

All of the instructors are from the staff of the Illinois' division of the Federal Recreation Project, and are under the direction of Thomas Rickman, Jr., State Director of the Women's and Professional Project Division, Federal Recreation Project. Rickman himself will deliver several lectures as a part of the Institute, which will offer regular college credits to those enrolling.

With the advance student registration exceeding expectations and reaching a figure of more than 150, a total enrollment for the five-day course of 300 or more is expected. Students registered free of charge.

Others will register the first day of the course for $2.50, the regular Extension Department fees. All who complete the course will receive two college quarter hour credits.

Instruction training, and demonstration will be given in practical recreation, music, arts and crafts, dancing, athletics, and sports and games.

Rickman, U. of I. Graduate—

Rickman, who will lecture on theories and tendencies in modern recreational work, is a graduate of the University of Illinois, where he was a member of the varsity baseball team, and has since served as recreational director with the Chicago Park system. He is a native of Chicago, and in his present position with the Federal Recreation Project is on leave of absence from the Chicago Park work.

Well-known to many in this section is Tim H. Kirk, state District Number 6 recreational director, who will be in charge of sports and games at the Institute. Kirk, a graduate of American University, is a native of Chicago, one of the finest schools of his kind in the country, has also served as Chicago Parks recreational supervisor, in addition to spending some time as Athletic Director of American College.

Harold Evans, who will instruct in student recreation, is a native of Illinois, is also a college graduate, with additional work from the University of Wisconsin, and has been activities and recreational advisor to various Boy Scout and Y. M. C. A. camps and projects. He has also been a crafts instructor in the Chicago Parks system.

Scheduled to give a demonstration for the archery students is Mrs. G. D. Mudd, Carbondale, who was the women's national archery champion in 1934, and who is the only woman ever to win the Missouri Valley archery title three years in a row, concluding that series last year.

Leather Work Exemplar Here—Leather craft work, examples of which are now on display in the gymnasium showcases, will be directed by Earl Harris, State Recreational Project director for craft work. Harris brought the samples of work similar to that which will be done by Institute students from Chicago, where it was done by children working under his supervision.

Miss Mildred Roberts, to be music instructor, has served as social worker and school teacher since her graduation from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and the completion of additional college work at Tulane University. Miss Roberts' school teaching has been in Harris where she has also worked as recreational director.

George B. Robinson, who has studied at Columbia University, and who has for 15 years been a Boy Scout

Students Given Vocation Training And Choice of Work

Best of which were selected for the series of plays given during the year. Twelve students, under the supervision of Mr. Hoger, of general carpentry, and with others under Mr. McCracken, are making a collection of most of the plant life of Southern Illinois. Intramural athletics were directed and supervised by FSA staff.

Emergency Duty—When the flood refugees were quartered on the campus in February many FSA students were released from their routine duties to do guard duty, issue Red Cross clothing, register and make directory of the refugees, and take case histories.

Short wave station WUUH on the third floor of the Chemistry building was kept on twenty-four hour duty by FSA volunteer help. All calls for assistance to volunteer student help came through a temporary FSA office established in the library.

High Scholastic Standing—Although averages for the spring term are not yet available, a previous survey revealed that FSA students made scholastic averages of one point higher than the rest of the student body.

SOME UNANSWERED QUESTIONS LEFT BY THE CURRICULUM COMMITTEE—

(Reprint from The Faculty Bulletin issued from the President's office.)
Retrospective Regulations and Requirements—
Several times it has been stated to the students in Chapel that any regulation made by the Curriculum Committee would not be made retrospective. The question naturally arises as to what we mean by a regulation retrospective. The rule has been variously interpreted by advisors and administrative officers.

In order to give the most liberal possible construction to the rule we shall say that work done by the student prior to September 1, 1936 will be credited to the purpose for which it would have been accepted prior to the changes in curriculum. For example, if a student presents three four-hour history courses which he took prior to the fall of 1936 he may have them accepted as satisfying his social science requirements without being asked to sacrifice his electives in order to fulfill his new requirements. The rule will apply to all other subjects and will apply also to the various suggested courses that are printed in the new catalog. This does not mean that the advisor should not try to persuade a student to use his electives to round out his education if it has been conspicuously lopsided.

How Much Practice Teaching—
The controversy over the question of how much practice teaching we should require took up a great deal of time in the meetings of the Curriculum Committee and was never conclusively settled. We shall consider the following to be the rule until it appears necessary to change it: We shall require three terms of practice teaching, but good students may be excused from one of the three terms if in the judgment of the practice department or the President there is good reason for their being excused. The practice department will have first jurisdiction in all cases.

It will be presumed that a student who makes two A's or an A and a B in practice may be excused without any argument if he requests it. Students who make two B's in practice and who have a B average in other subjects will be handled as individual cases.

The Handwriting Requirement—
All students who want to qualify for teaching in the elementary schools in either the two or four year course will be required to pass an examination in handwriting or take the course in handwriting.

The examination will be given by the Education Department, and for the time being, the responsibility for giving it and for having the papers graded will be given to Mr. Thalman. He will select such assistants as he may need from the education and practice department staffs.

The examination will be given once each term. A student who fails the examination once will be given only one other opportunity to take it. When he fails the second time he will automatically be required to take the course.

The course in handwriting will be taught by the Commerce department. It will carry a credit of two quarter hours for Commerce majors or for teachers preparing to teach in the elementary schools.

What Constitutes A Major—
It is to the interest of all department heads not to set up excessive department requirements for a major and not to restrict the students too much in the selection of his minor and related subjects. Most of the departments have set up 36 quarter hours, including the required subjects of the first two years in the field. For the under-graduate concerned primarily with general education this would appear to be a reasonable requirement in most departments. The English and foreign language departments

Reporter's Efforts Discover That One-half Of Ensemble Is 'On The Roster' Of Chi Civic Opera

By Mildred Walker
SCENE I (before performance)—
Principals conspicuous for their absence—discovery of small, attractive, glittering brunette (black) splashed at intervals with black rhinestones on back and hair flowing skirt—seriously at work directing movements of fanfare struggling with piano—pause—repeat—exploration of properties for still missing principals—return to glittering lady (with the secret knowledge that she must be the prima donna) attendant with a smile dimly the end of the performance—disappearance of lovely lady into music room.
SCENE II The Big Moment—
Discovery that mysterious glittering lady is the pianist—appearance of second lady (buxom) with hitherto unseen young man in white tunic and dark coat (musicians) recumbent on their own William Rowland—second lady also clad in evening gown (also in the daytime), only this time it's pale blue lace over peach satin—stunning realization that the Monte Carlo Ensemble is a double break and dash over the feet of Dr. Bailey and a few other people to make it backstage again.
SCENE III (in the presence of the almighty)—
Buxom soprano panting after encore—contestation of same—pleasant smile—discovery that our young singer is not so young, that he is "on the roster" of the Chicago Civic Opera Co. (dressed) to remain "on the roster" one ventures secretly fidgeting of young man—discovery that prima donna is a voice teacher in the Chicago Conservatory of Music and that the glittering person playing the piano is also a teacher on the same faculty, but of voice and German (what's German doing in a music conservatory)—more declaration that the young baritone is "on the roster" (that's all we ever learned)—sudden proclamation by prima donna, that "I'm afraid we have no more time (with at least 3 more numbers yet to go)—discovery by your reporter—pained sigh by same. "Rendering" of duet heard sometime later from the great outdoors.

Film Depicting Mob Psychology

Dealing with a lesson in mob psychology and mob spirit, the high school sociology classes at the A.H.M. building were presented with a feature picture Wednesday morning through the generosity of the Gem theater management.

The picture selected by supervising teachers in the high school sociology classes, was the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature "Fury," starring Sylvia Sydney and Spencer Tracy. The picture had been shown at the Gem theater about a year ago and was brought back by Manager Hayes for the Wednesday morning showings to college and high school students.

Two hundred or more students, accompanied by their instructors, attended the showing. The purpose of the special showing of the picture was to present to the classes certain aspects of mob phenomena in America in connection with facts and data of mob rule covering the last four or five decades in the United States.

FACULTY NEWS—

On Friday, June 25th, Dr. Mary M. Stegall accompanied Mrs. E. W. Reef, District President of the Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Alice Snyder, President of the Carbondale Women's Club, to Chester for the purpose of organizing a federated women's club in Chester.

Nedra Goggin and Jesse Gardner, former students of S. I. N. U. were visitors at the home of Dr. Vera L. Pencock last week.

On Saturday evening, June 26th, the Monroe County group enjoyed a picnic supper at the Ann-Jonesboro Park.

MRS. CLARENCE HODGE TO VISIT HERE
Mrs. Clarence Hodge of Washington, D. C. will arrive July 2 for a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Warren.

might reasonably require more, although I am not even sure about that.

Aside from the fact that it is not good education policy, which is the all important reason, it would appear that the surest way to drive students out of department into other departments or into similar departments in other colleges would be to set up an unreasonably high requirement for a major in the department.

Of course, there is no objection to the student's using as many of his electives as he pleases to strengthen his major field if he knows exactly what he is doing, and feels that that will serve his own purpose best.

HOW ABOUT AN S. I. LOUNGE—

Would you vote yes or nay to the establishment of two attractive, comfortably furnished, and up-to-the-minute student lounge rooms?

There are at present on the second floor of the Old Science building, two newly floored and redecorated rooms raring to be put to some useful purpose. By appropriating several hundred dollars from the student activity fund these could be converted into second homes for students—a place where they might rest or talk-between classes, smoke, and entertain their friends. For the evening hours, say from 6 till 10 o'clock, a regular chaperone could be employed. Some such arrangement as reserving the use of the north room to women and throwing open its neighbor to both sexes might be worked out.

But these details are at present of secondary importance. The main thing to remember is this: We can have student lounges and equip them with every modern comfort if we take the trouble to ask them!
Think it over; and when the matter comes to a vote, your time will have arrived.

ART HELLER, LOUISE LEAR WED SATURDAY

Arthur Heller and Mary Louise Lear, former students of S. I. N. U., were married last Saturday evening at the Methodist parsonage in Carbondale. Dr. Cameron Harmon performed the ceremony.

Arthur Heller was a letter man in football and track and a member of the MacDowell club. Heller played end in football and was a javelin thrower on the track squad. His quitting school to cause quite a gap in the S. I. N. U. athletics.

Mary Louise Lear was also a member of the MacDowell club and an accompanist of the Roland Hayes club.

At the present Heller is an employee of the Central Illinois Power and Light Company.

DUO-DRAMATISTS COFFER-MILLER GIVE 'OLD SCHOOL' INTERPRETATION OF DEATH OF MARY, QUEEN OF SCOTS

By Anne Langdon
The historical events leading to the death of Mary Stuart were portrayed by the Coffey-Miller troupe in chapel yesterday, when they presented "Shadows Across The Throne." The play, written by Mr. Coffey, gave a characterization of Queen Elizabeth, Mary Stuart, and Sir Amyas Paulet, with the indication of Queen Elizabeth to execute Mary, Queen of Scotland. She was encouraged and aided in her plotting by Sir Amyas Paulet.

The players were from "the old school" of acting, and judged from present day standards, they were excellent. They depended too much upon costumes and make-up for their characterization. Miss Miller's voice and facial expressions when portraying Elizabeth were excellent, but her mannerisms and walking made the queen into a comedy character. She was at her best as Mary of Scotland. Mr. Coffey as Amyas Paulet insisted upon dropping into a comic interpretation of the role.

The play opened with Elizabeth and Sir Amyas Paulet discussing plans for ridding the queen of her enemy, Mary Stuart. Because of slow cues and waiting for the audience to respond, the action throughout act was slow. The play, however, speeded up as it moved along to a dramatic and effective climax—the execution of Mary Stuart.

MOVIES IN REVIEW

By Edith Rainey
SILM is a thoroughly enjoyable movie of electric linemen who work on high towers, building and repairing the country's power lines. The screen play was adapted from a story by William Winter Haines. The story begins when Sam (Henry Fonda), a farm boy fascinated by the perils of the job of some linemen putting up a transmission tower near his father's farm, asked for a job on the crew. He gets his job when a careless lineman is fired for dropping a tool.

Because Red Blayke (Pat O'Brien) high wire, Silm becomes a trouble for the boss, the two pals shoulder the blame and quit, heading for Chicago where they look up Red's girl friend, Cally (Margaret Lindsay), a nurse.

After Silm begins the job, the situation becomes a struggle between his love for Cally and his love for his job. The climax comes in the power house yard on a snowy night. The ends of hot wire, broken by the cold and the weight of ice on them, are snapping in the wind and cause the high voltage lines nearby to short circuit and blaze like torches, giving off an enormous charge of electricity.

While the men are repairing the damage caused by the ice, a cable breaks, causing Red to fall across the wires to his death. After the first shock passes, Silm leaves Cally waiting below and resumes the repair job thus interrupted.

The film is noteworthy because it is not spoiled by the usual sentimental gush attending a thrilling picture. Henry Fonda does an effective job of underplaying in one of the best roles of his career. Much of the humor of the piece is supplied by Stuart Erwin as Stumpy, a lazy grump who is forever singing a ditty about Mabel, though one of the funniest scenes in the picture occurs where Red and Silm are racing along a dividend on their way to a new job.

Incidentally, the magnificent shots of the generating plant were made at Boulder Dam.

LANGUAGE MAJORS ATTENDING CLASSES AT S. I.

Several of the French majors are spending a part of the summer in Carbondale. Oliver Rarabaker, who is studying German this term, was the president of the French Club in 1935-36; last year he had an assistantship at the University of Illinois, where he worked on his Master's degree; his assistantship has been renewed for this year.

Dorothy Kusko, who is also in school this term, has been teaching Latin and English in the Murphysboro High School.

Isabelle Johnson, who returned to Nashville, Tennessee, to complete work on her doctor's degree after a short visit in Carbondale, is the head of the Latin Department of the Tennessee Women's College located at Murfreesboro, Tennessee.

Eleanor Ebertson, who is now working on her master's degree at the University of Michigan, has been teaching in the Oconee High School; Maurie Taylor, who is now instructing in a girl's camp, teaches French and Physical Education in the McHenry High School; she was the president of the French Club in 1932-33.

Nedra Goggin, 1934-35 president of the French Club, teaches French and Physical Education at Penn, Illinois. Ruth Stevenson has been teaching the Fourth Grade in the Harrisburg schools.

Charles Gardner is teaching French in York, South Carolina. Elsie Wright teaches Latin in Metairie, Louisiana.

Jane Warren Hodge, who was the president of the French Club in 1932-33, has a government position in New York City.

Robert Mac Baker Brown has been substituting as French teacher in Frederick, Maryland.

Dr. Elizabeth Moeller, Professor of Psychology at Sweetbrier, visited Dr. Peaback last week.

Commuter's Comments

The supposed humor of this column has come under question, to say nothing of condemnation. Some of the high school students have been unkind enough to charge that it was barely beyond their own level, and one really newsworthy commentator suggested that we change the name of the column to S. I. N. U. S. N. News.

But is only so-called humor below college level? Witness this too typical example of college wit:
Henselstein, Rutledge students "I thought about going to the dentist, but gave it up because it is such a tough grind."
Harold Herber Budde: "Yes, it sure is a long, hard pull."

Who was the last nutcase commuted in Dr. Bowden's Sec. 101 who humbled (?) asked that he postpone his test because she had to wash next day?

"Pop" Karna pops up: "It's no disgrace to grow old, but I must say it's darned inconvenient at times."

We note that gas masks are becoming more and more popular.

ING OUT TO HIS SECOND BASE. PITCHER... JOE MEINKE Always Tags It Coming In Flashy??????????

Pitcher Louie Warneke of the Gas House Gang has developed one of the finest home run balls in the major leagues this season. He has already yielded more than a dozen four hits this season, to such clouters as Lomax of the Cubs; Ott of the Cardinals; and Riddle of the Giants; Moore, Campbell, Klen, and Armovich of the Phils; Lopez and Yino of the Magros of the Reds. Nevertheless the Arkansas is one of the leading pitchers in the National League at this time.

Seems to me that such a breath-taking innovation might be permitted here. Haven't you, too, breathed, or gasped: "Breath there a map with soul so dead," assuming, of course, that the ex-odorous element is his soul?

Yes, if. If followed Europe's example, the proto here could be sure of breathless attention in their classes.

DOMESTIC BLISS

A By-play in One-Seventeenth Acts Scene: K. D. A. house lawn and D. S. E. veranda.

Time: Daily or otherwise.

Character: You guess.

(The scene opens with our hero vainly bludgeoning a ping-pong ball. Hark! A strident voice from across the way.)

Voice: Ure-e-e! What are you doing?

Hero: Daily or otherwise.

Ure: No. Nothing.

Winnie: Are you playing ping-pong?

Ure: Yes, a little.

Winnie: Well, you stop this minute! (She yells.)

Ure: Ure-e-e-o-o-o-e-e! You hear me come here!

Dory: Yes, m'lave.

(Curtain, please!)

Professor:

I want to explain why I wasn't in class this morning. I'm a commuter. This morning I stopped at one of these super-service stations.

"Five gallons of gas," I says, to the uniform who came running up. A looney he musta been, at least.

He didn't pay me any mind—just pulled a gadget out of his pocket and started polishing the windshield.

"Hey! All I want is five gallons of gas," I protested. But does that fare him? He just beered. So there was nothing for me to do but wait while he whited, washed, rinsed, and polished at an obstinate fly speck. After he had finally scraped it off with his finger nail I settled back. But then he threw up the hood and pulled out the oil gauge.

"Oils O. K.," he says, sweetly. "Oh right," I says, not so sweetly. "For I was in a hurry, see? I wouldn't have missed your class for anything, professor."

Then he grabbed a hose and yanked off my radiator cap. "My radiator's full," I says weakly, "now can I PLEASE have five gallons of gas?" But, no, he grabs the air hose and starts in on my tires.

I grabbed a wrench and jumped out. "No, you don't!" I yelled, "I want five gallons of gas, and by golly, I'm gonna get it!" That kinda stunned him.

"Gotta air your tires," he muttered. "That's what the super-service man says." "Like fun I air it," I rejoined. Then, while I clenched my with my deadly weapon the feller with me drove on down the street.

ALL DAY TOUR OF 9000 ACRE LAND PROJECT
Marion, Ill., July 3.—Farmers and the general public of southern Illinois will meet at the Reclamation Administration office, four miles north of Dixon Springs, at 9:30 a. m., July 3, for an all day program and tour of the 9,000-acre land utilization project. Invitations have been sent to fifteen counties.

The occasion is the first annual field day of the project at which achievement of project workers in setting up demonstrations in pasture experiments, soil treatment, erosion control, systems of grazing and forest development, will be explained.

As visitors arrive at the project office, they will be sent out in groups of forty to fifty to tour the area, with an official in charge to explain the program.

U. of I. To Demonstrate—

One feature of especial interest to Southern Illinois farmers will be the University of Illinois demonstration of use of flood damaged corn in cattle feed. The experiment is being carried on in cooperation with the Reclamation Administration.

Counties which are expected to send visitors to the area are: Pope, Hardin, Williamson, Gallatin, Pulaski, Alexander, Jackson, Franklin, Johnson, Saline, Massac, Union, Jefferson, and White.

The project includes a 6,000 acre tract—being developed as a pasture experiment area which will be turned over to the University of Illinois upon completion. Soil treatment, erosion control and grazing systems will be demonstrated on this tract.

Plant Forest—

A forest area, which will be turned over to the U. S. Forest Service upon completion of the development work. Barren and eroded slopes are being planted and 750,000 young trees already are in place. Stand improvement work has been completed on 1,322 acres.

A 400-acre soil erosion experiment station. This station will be for experiments in developing methods of soil erosion control. The work will be carried out by the Soil Conservation Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Then I dashed on after him.

We stopped to ponder. Finally we hit on this expedient. We drove on around the corner and then I stopped like I was outta gas. I walked on to the next station and got five gallons of gas in a can. Then we drove on up to the next station to leave the tin, and another second loony came dashing up.

"Stand back," I yelled (throwing the can at him. And before he could recover I drove away.)

And that's why I wasn't in class this morning, professor.

Mrs. Lively, Poly Set 200, has classified Mr. Jack Bishop very aptly we think. "Mr. Bishop is so peppy. He's as lively as one of my eighth grade boys."

Now isn't it true?

That the people who make the most fuss when you print their names in the paper are the ones who are just tickled pink to be noticed?

Elizabeth Wells, Enrolled At University Of Michigan

Miss Elizabeth Wells, West Frankfort, Illinois, class of 1932, is now enrolled at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, where she plans to get her M. S. degree in Botany. She was accepted in the graduate school in full standing, her undergraduate work meeting all requirements of the department there. Miss Wells, while here completed a major in Botany and a minor in Zoology. She has been employed as a teacher in the city schools of West Frankfort since her graduation.

dents may select the one they prefer to attend. Following the lecture there will be an open forum.

Include Remedial Reading—

Dr. Andrew W. Brown, psychologist, will introduce the topic "The Organization of a Remedial Reading Program in the Schools," which is a discussion of the selection and methods of remedial reading for students with difficulties. This session will be held in Room 105 in the Parkinson Laboratory.

Mrs. Ethel Richardson, Psychiatric Social Worker, will discuss "Conventional Methods of Dealing with the Child who is Presumptive of Behavior Difficulties in School and Failing in His Work." This discussion of the mental hygiene approach to the child who fails in his school work through indifference temper tantrums, day-dreaming, or other types of behavior disorders. The place of this meeting is in Room 105 in the Parkinson Laboratory.

Dr. Marvin Sukor, psychiatrist, will discuss "Home Patterns Displayed by the Child in the Classroom," which will be a discussion of individual pupil problems in the classroom which have their basis in the home situation. This meeting will be held in the basement of the Allen Building, near the South entrance.

It will be necessary in order to give plenty of opportunity for discussion to limit the number of those to attend these meetings to twenty-five or thirty-five, with the possibility of admitting a few additional students or faculty members to the study presented by Dr. Andrew W. Brown. Those who wish to attend are requested to sign up previously, and when the group reaches the enrollment of about thirty-five each, no others can be admitted. Students or faculty members who expect to attend the seminars should enroll immediately with Dr. W. A. Thalmann, Room 105, Parkinson Laboratory.

In addition to the case study presentation and the seminars, the staff, in cooperation with the local committee of the college, will also interview the cases which are brought to them from various parts of Southern Illinois and will review some of the previous cases, most of this part of the work being done during the morning sessions.

Practically all cases studied have average or superior intelligence but may be persons who are having difficulty with school work, or who are finding it hard to adjust themselves to life, or who may be having other orientation difficulties.

Senate idea was first considered it was intended to function first next fall, the administration is seeking the opinion of a representative and responsible faculty group on important current matters, so the Senate plan will be put into effect immediately.

because of the greater activity there as compared with the outfield," he said. "Moreover playing third will be less of a strain on my legs than covering a lot of ground in the outfield. Infield play is comparatively new to Patton and he admits that he still has some trouble in trying to conquer ground balls."

Good Teams in Intramurals—

Patton enjoys playing in the Summer League and feels that the standards of play here are stiff enough to give him good training in his comeback campaign. "A few years ago I played in seven teams for a .314 average. Two of these five teams were for extra bases. If Patton's keen eye is maintained and if he masters the intricacies of infield play, local fans believe that the Hitting Schoolmaster may resume the climb to baseball fame. This was checked by an injury in 1935.

executive, will be in charge of nature study.

Dramatics and similar forms of social recreation will be under supervision of Weldon B. Wade, for many years active in theatrical and community recreational work. He is a graduate of the National Recreational School, New York, and was for 14 years a theatrical director. In 1930, he was in charge of the Bloomington, Ill., Centennial pageant.

Folk Dancing Expert—

The outstanding exponent of folk and hand dancing in the middle west is Guy Colby. Identified most prominently with the VPI radio band dance program, who will be in charge of the folk dancing studies at the Institute. Colby has long campaigned for recognition of folk dancing as a distinctive art, and his teaching has proven that such a dance form can be accepted as an artistic medium.

Miss Frieda Coombs, also a graduate of the National Recreational School, will deliver a series of pre-school lectures and will conduct demonstrations. Miss Coombs for two years attended James Millikin University at Decatur.

Classes at the Institute during the five days will meet from 2 to 6 each afternoon, and other phases of recreational training, including social forms, will be taken up from 7 until 9 p. m.
